

Virtual Reality (VR) experience health and safety notice

Please read this notice before you book your VR experience

By participating in the Awavena Virtual Reality Experience ('VR experience'), you agree that you have read and understood the following information.

Ten Days on the Island does not recommend the use of Virtual Reality (VR) for children under the age of 13 years. Notwithstanding, if a parent or guardian of a child under the age of 13 permits their child to participate in the VR experience, they should supervise their child for any adverse effects. Ten Days on the Island has the sole discretion not to admit any person to the VR experience if a Ten Days on the Island representative considers that the VR experience would not be suitable for them.

HTC, the manufacturer of the product used to deliver the VR experience ('the VR products') advise the following:

Photosensitive Seizures

Like other products that produce visual effects (including light flashes), the product may trigger epileptic seizures, seizures, fainting, or severe dizziness even in people who have no history of these conditions. If you have a previous history of epilepsy or seizures, loss of awareness, or other symptoms linked to an epileptic condition, consult your doctor before using the product. To reduce the likelihood of a seizure do not use the product if you are tired or need sleep.

Use by Children

The product was not designed to be used by small children (under 4) or toddlers. If older children are permitted to use the product, then adults should monitor them closely for any negative effects during and after their use of the product. Do not allow older children to use the product if negative effects are observed.

The headset manufacturer's full health and safety warning can be found here:

<https://fccid.io/NM80PJT100/User-Manual/User-Manual-Safety-Guide-2855703>